Center for European Policy Analysis

James S. Denton Transatlantic Fellow

November 2022 - November 2022 (1 місяць)

Washington, District of Columbia, United States

I had an honour to be selected for the Fall 2022 Denton Fellows cohort. The program brings a select group of rising professionals from Central and Eastern Europe (CEE) to Washington, DC for a three-week fellowship to engage and work with American experts on addressing major policy issues facing the transatlantic partnership. As part of the program we had meetings with key officials, participated in conferences and round-table discussions, as well as engaged with the CEPA team on a number of crucial issues. For me the focus of the fellowship was to engage with US counterparts on the issue of Russian war of aggression against Ukraine and support to Ukraine from the Western partners.

George C. Marshall Center

Adjunct Professor, Co-seminar leader

2020 - 2022 (2 роки)

Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Bavaria, Germany

I was invited by GCMC as an adjunct professor and co-seminar leader for three editions of the Seminar on Regional Security in January 2020, April-May 2021, April-May 2022.

My role included conducting lectures to provide background understanding about Ukraine and the Russian aggression against Ukraine from 2014, participating in panel discussions and facilitating the work of the seminar groups alongside with the member of the faculty.

The Seminar on Regional Security (SRS) is a three week resident course at GCMC which focuses on European regional security challenges that are driving European political agendas and public discussion. Central to this course is the examination of multiple regional conflicts along European borders, past and ongoing, which will allow participants to enhance their ability to analyze and propose resolution.
